For over three decades (est. 1983), Clearwater Summit Group (CSGI) has been providing comprehensive and innovative landscaping services in and around the Inland Northwest region, including design, installation, and landscape maintenance. As they like to say at CSGI, no project is too big or too small for them to tackle. And although much of their work centers in the greater Spokane and Coeur d'Alene metropolitan area, being one of the largest landscape companies in the region allows them to cover a vast territory, with regular design and construction work being done in Lewiston, Pullman, Walla Walla, Colville, Kellogg and Sandpoint.

Tim Sweet, Director of Business Development, grew up in a small town in northeastern Connecticut before graduating with a BA from the University of Colorado in 1974.

While attending school in Boulder, he grew to love the wild mountain spaces in Colorado and committed to a career in the green industry. In the spring of 1977, he helped start Ray Turf Farm and in 1978 took a position with Clark and Sons Landscaping as a project manager and superintendent, before leaving to start his own firm, Summit Landscape Construction in March 1983. Since that time, he has served as a primary visionary force for his company as well as the local landscape industry.

Today the company is owned and operated by Ty Ullman, President and Landscape Architect. Ty grew up in Billings, MT and moved to Spokane, WA during high school. Ty has always enjoyed the outdoors, which helped him gravitate towards majoring in Landscape Architecture at Washington State University, where he graduated in 1993. Three years later, he started Clearwater Landscape Company, and in the year 2000, merged his company with Tim Sweet and Summit Landscape Construction to create the talented collection of individuals, that is today, known as Clearwater Summit Group.

The approachable and down-to-earth crew at CSGI sets it apart from the pack, with a mindset that fosters solid work relationships and quality. The same level of attention is provided to all projects, regardless of size or budget, and the company works to assure that its clients experience the best outcome for their landscape investment.

Good landscaping starts with good design. CSGI has the ability to offer a full array of services to both residential and commercial clients in the region. They have multiple licensed landscape architects on staff, both in Washington and Idaho, along with landscape professionals that are certified in many different areas of expertise. So from a small garden design for a home or a set of commercial landscape plans to meet the requirements of the local municipality, CSGI has the design expertise that its clients expect.

When it's time to move in to the construction phase, CSGI can provide and perform essentially all aspects of landscape construction work, including site demolition, grading, drainage and erosion control, planting consultation as well as the installation of irrigation systems, hardscapes, water features, low voltage lighting, outdoor exterior carpentry, custom fencing, pergola structures, deck work, and complete outdoor kitchens. The construction team at CSGI has the skill and dedication to take the design through the implementation process to completion, with talented workers that have a diverse range of skills and expertise that allows CSGI to tackle almost any landscape project. All foremen have at least 10+ years of experience in the field, and some have been on board since the conception of Summit Landscaping in 1983, well before the merger with Clearwater in 2000.

And finally, when the project is complete, Clearwater Summit Group also has a maintenance division that can keep your landscape looking as good as the day it was installed. In addition to residential services, they also provide commercial landscape maintenance services, including regular mowing, pruning, seasonal clean-up, irrigation turn-ons and blow-outs, water feature treatments and repair, snow and ice removal and even Christmas lighting.

In short, the crew at CSGI has always been inspired by the natural environment and the resulting benefits for body and soul that it provides. They use their inspiration to promote the company mission, believing that CSGI's work will provide a lasting legacy for the community. If it can be done outdoors, this group will make it happen!
