

Badger Building Center A Local Lumber Yard with a Regional Footprint

TPM Member since December 1997

As most contractors and homeowners know, building industry trends can come, go, and fluctuate continually; building better, faster and smarter, while meeting the needs of the buyer demographic, is a challenge that requires continual adaptation. This adaptation, mixed with steadfast commitment to high-quality products and competitive pricing, is what Badger Building Center does best.

Established in 1983, Badger Building Center has been a pillar for the building supply industry for over 35 years, and carries a unique perspective on building needs, tools and criteria needed to craft a successful building project. From the early '80s to today, Badger guarantees the highest quality products at a competitive price, readily available to customers and supplied with the highest level of customer service on the market.

With a full-line of building materials – everything from pole buildings, metal and composition roofing, decking and siding, to tools to help accommodate your DIY building and remodeling needs – the building center is equipped to assist you with any building project the landscape can warrant. As customers over the years have learned, there's no job too big or small for Badger Building Center.

Unique to most corporate building supply centers in the industry, Badger Building Center guarantees the top product, service and quality – while maintaining a personalized approach. The building center was originally established in Sandpoint,

Idaho by Mike and Sandy Badger (this store was relocated to Sagle, Idaho in 2003). Their son, Lee Badger, entered the business in 1990, acquiring responsibility over a supply company poised for substantial growth in the years to come. In 1991, Badger Building Center opened a second location in Post Falls, Idaho, and another in Kalispell, Montana in 1996. Years later, Badger completed a northward expansion with the launch of their Bonners Ferry, Idaho store, futuristically positioning themselves to guarantee optimal service and delivery to the four major corners of the Inland Northwest – Northern Idaho, Western Montana, the Flathead Valley and Eastern Washington. Now poised with a four-shop network capable of meeting the customer's needs with efficiency and ease, Badger Building Center set the foundational pillars for long-term success.

Badger Building delivers to the customer site. This truck is on its way and the delivery will be a breeze with the forklift on the back.

Today, Lee Badger and his wife, Kim, operate the business, and are supported by General Manager Rich Carvalho, a tenured and dedicated management team, and over 40 employees spread throughout its four locations. These employees are committed to continued education of industry trends, skill development and knowledge of cutting-edge products to keep Badger’s customers satisfied with their purchase and experience. The Badger family is steadfast in their assertion that this dedicated cohort is the final “family ingredient” – along with the highest-quality products, exemplary customer service and competitive pricing – that keeps Badger Building Center on the top of the independent lumber yard list, faithfully serving a region of continued growth and development – with anticipation of more to come.
