

Onboarding

An Essential Process for Employee Retention and Long-Term Employee Success

Effective and purposeful onboarding of new hires has consistently helped companies retain employees and build stronger company cultures. A well thought out onboarding program engages employees and creates workers that are committed to the company's success. This helps retain new hires by making them feel like a member of the team.

months, and, ideally, through the first year. The idea is to improve your new employees' initial experience working in your organization.

By engaging in this process, you jump start their ability to contribute to your organization's goals and increase the likelihood that your employees will stay. The same amount of effort put forth for hiring a

Statistics compiled by Click Boarding, an onboarding software company in Eden Prairie, Minnesota, provide insight into how essential a dedicated onboarding program can be to the success of a new hire:

- ▲ 69 percent of employees are more likely to stay with a company for three years if they experienced great onboarding.
- ▲ New employees who went through a structured onboarding program were 58 percent more likely to be with the organization after three years.
- ▲ Organizations with a standard onboarding process experience 50 percent greater new-hire productivity.

Finding and hiring good employees requires the investment of a great deal of time and money, and like all investments, employers should take steps to protect their new hires by working towards long-term retention. Currently, employee retention is one of the most difficult aspects of business for companies. Employees have a tendency to jump from company to company as they look for more money, a "better" boss or a different company atmosphere.

The question is, how do we convince a good employee to stay with our company? One of the most effective methods for increasing retention, is focusing on onboarding. Onboarding is the process of helping new hires adjust to social and performance aspects of their new jobs quickly and smoothly.

It's a long-term process that begins before your new employee arrives and continues for at least the first six potential candidate needs to be invested in onboarding a new hire as well.

When people think of onboarding, the word "orientation" usually comes to mind. Yes, orientation is where new hires fill out important documentation, sign up for benefits, and receive the company tour. However, that's not what onboarding actually is. Employee onboarding introduces new hires to the important aspects of the company: values, culture, and people.

According to a report from the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM), there are four essential components that should be included in onboarding, referred to as the four C's:

- ▲ Compliance: Providing basic legal information and training on rules and regulations.
- ▲ Clarification: Clarifying roles and expectations for new employees.
- ▲ Culture: Introducing new employees to organizational norms.
- ▲ Connection: Helping new employees establish networks and relationships.

The Onboarding Checklist is designed to help you plan for a new employee's arrival. Once your employee starts, you can work together to complete the checklist. Keep in mind - this checklist is a template. You should customize it to fit your needs.

Onboarding Checklist

PRE-ARRIVAL

Engage Early

- Have the manager contact (preferably by telephone) your new employee after HR has confirmed the new employee's start date to "touch base"
 - Make yourself available to answer your new employee's questions
 - Provide information about transportation options, commuting options, rideshare website information, etc.
- Determine what your new employee needs to know to become productive as quickly as possible

Plan for Success

- Prepare on-boarding packet to supplement orientation packet provided by the human resources office (e.g., organizational charts, job-specific information, resources list, websites and other reference sources used)
- Schedule of key meetings for your new employee
- Clearly define the career path for your new employee (discuss during first week)
- Create a training schedule for first year
- Create milestones for first year

Set-up Resources

- Identify and prepare employee's work area
- Order/set-up computer workstation
- Arrange for phone and voice mail and other equipment
- Determine/order optional items (e.g., cell phone, mobile device, laptop, printer)
- Identify and label office mailbox
- Order office/working supplies and put in work area
- Send information technology (IT) access request to IT department for access (e.g., specify shared drives)
- Request employee be added to internal email distribution groups
- Ensure any accommodations needed are ready

Involve the Team

- Send email to staff introducing new employee
- Set-up welcome lunch with team
- Identify employee sponsor ("buddy") and provide sponsor checklist

FIRST DAY

- Welcome and escort your new employee to the organization's Employee Orientation
- Lunch for you, your new employee, and your team (if employee orientation is all day, then team lunch during the first week)
- Explain the work of your unit, the employee's role, and working relationships
- Review organizational chart
- Describe the organization and its functions
- Explain levels of supervision in the unit
- Explain to whom the employee reports and who, if anyone, reports to the employee
- Have the current job description available for discussion
- Explain the employee's position in the unit and describe the relation of his/her work to that of others in the unit
- Explain how the employee's job duties relate to the unit's mission, the agency's mission, and the work of other agency organizations
- Describe the facility layout/conduct a tour
- Work areas
- Restrooms/water fountains/water cooler/kitchen areas
- Cafeteria, snack bar(s), break rooms, vending machines
- Health unit
- Security
- Location of copiers and fax machines and passwords, printers, etc.
- Office/Facility supply areas
- Review telephone information and procedures
- Phone numbers
- Network access (including remote email access)
- Intranet
- IT use policy and IT security training
- Review physical security/emergency procedures
- Provide office keys/codes
- Ensure access to all necessary rooms
- Emergency evacuation/dismissal procedures
- Inclement weather policies/procedures
- Discuss procedures for reporting potential hazards and actions to be taken if injured or if someone is hurt
- Review travel information/policies and procedures
- Travel reimbursement procedures
- Travel credit card (as applicable)

First Week

- Job
 - Training requirements
 - Position description
 - Job expectations
 - Individual goals and objectives
 - Milestones
 - Clearly define the career path
 - Review calendar of events
 - Set 30 day priorities
- Ensure employee has completed any mandatory training required to start
- Explain the duties to employee
 - Identify appropriate assignments the employee can start immediately
 - Discuss specific duties and responsibilities of the job
 - Explain quality and quantity requirements
 - Provide learning aids and resources (e.g., work samples, forms, manuals, Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs), access to shared directories, etc.)
 - Indicate whom to contact for help when needed
- Review HR/Administrative Policies and Procedures
 - Work schedules/core work hours
 - Office coverage
 - Overtime/compensatory time policies
 - Telework policy
 - Alternative work schedules
 - Lunch/break periods
 - Timekeeping/work reporting procedures
 - Procedures for requesting leave and reporting illness/emergencies
 - Responsibilities regarding personally identifiable information (PII)
 - Encourage employee to discuss benefits with HR

First Three Months and Beyond

- Provide feedback on the new employee's performance and also solicit feedback from the employee to gauge whether the job experience meets what was expected
- Solicit informal feedback from peers who have been working with the new employee
- Continue to look for opportunities to integrate your new employee with the work groups/teams, and into the organization as a whole
- Encourage your new employee to share ideas for improving the operations, strategies, work, and/or culture of the organization

TPM U is an educational series provided to TPM members free of charge. For more information or to register for one of these classes, please go to the TPM website's Under Events at the bottom of the Home Page (<http://www.timberassociation.com>) or call (509) 535-4646. Registration is limited to 50 computers per webinar.

Guest Speaker

Social Security - Use It or You Could Lose It!
Tue, April 18, 2023 1:30 PM - 2:30 PM PDT

Jim Lusk, CFP, CLU, ChFC, MA, will present reasons to use your social security benefits. When to start your benefits and the ins and outs of delaying benefits. Learn how Social Security can be an asset for you.

Hearing Conservation Programs - What does my plan need; to be compliant?

Wednesday, April 19, 2023 1:30 PM (PDT)

In this webinar, we will discuss tips and techniques for conducting an industrial noise hazard assessment. We will also discuss PPE, industrial noise exposure reduction techniques, ANSI and NIOSH information, and OSHA citations that are frequently cited related to industrial noise.

Management Training Three Part Series

Part 1: Leadership and Communication
Friday, April 7, 2023 3:00 PM (PDT)

This webinar will cover leadership and the rights and responsibilities of a supervisor acting as a company agent.

Part 2: Employees & Subcontractors
Friday, May 5, 2023 3:00 PM (PDT)

This webinar will cover the importance of your handbook policies, dealing with difficult people, disciplining your employees, effective communication, and learning and growing as a supervisor.

Part 3: Employment Law Overview
Friday, June 9, 2023 3:00 PM (PDT)

This webinar will cover Title VII of Civil Rights Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act, Americans with Disabilities Act, Pregnancy Discrimination Act, and Fair Labor Standards Act.